Administration And Faculty

To the Class of 1970 –

President Kennedy's words, "Ask not what your Country can do for you but ask what you can do for your Country" have apparently fallen on deaf ears. Never before have so many people sought personal advantage through group actions so large that even the government can successfully be defied.

Are we rushing as heedlessly into the destruction of our form of government and our way of life as we are in the destruction of our land and lives through air-water pollution and drug addiction?

Shall we in our reckless desire to form power groups become slaves to the dictatorship of these groups?

Are we going to allow this land, that needs barriers only to regulate the many people who want to enter instead of walls and guns to keep citizens from leaving, this land that had provided freedom and opportunity unprecedented in the world to become a land of chaos and anarchy which can end only in the loss of freedom as has already occurred on half the world?

You, the young people of our land, are going to provide the answers. Let's cast out the idea that we do only what brings us pleasure and go forward to the idea that we gain only if our community and our country gains. Don't sell your birthright for a mess of pottage. Do what you can do to aid your country and, through it, the world.

To "1970" From "1940"

False to say "Yearbook:
When yearbook is end of twelve-year schoolbook
And prelude to eternity.

Chapters from life's book
Are titled:

MARRIED
RETIRED
And Entered into Eternity . . .

But what of high school halls
And memories recalled
While pausing over attic-stained pages,
Prophetic with autographed messages
Proved poignantly false – or true – in 1992?

Will you remember us then?
And smile a little in remembering,
Or sniffle a little in tender recall
Of those of us who loved you more
Than your generation gap gave us credit for?

We do, you know!

Affectionately,
Claude W. Dundore

Creative Yearbook Staff Captures Student Action

The Pioneer, Exeter's annual recording of the year's events, is developed through a combination of seemingly diverse areas.

An orignal cover, designed by Vicki Deysher, added to an opening poem by Janet Goldstan, plus both student and professional photographs, and Tony Sinkosky's artwork all combine to show Exeter's year.

Also combining efforts were the layout, copy, sports, and business staffs who pooled their knowledge. As their talents revealed themselves, members of the various staffs worked closely together to insure a coordinated yearbook.

Many after-school hours, evening sessions, and study periods were spent in room 121 while the staff developed techniques such as cropping, scaleographing, copy writing, and picture editing.

"Echo" Reflects Students' Views

Under the guidance of Mrs. June Gwyn, the Echo is published monthly during the school year.

Through the combined skills of the writers, typists, editors, and Mr. Monk's printers, the Echo is able to reflect the total school scene. Each Echo contains articles ranging from student comment on school policy to teacher's guest articles on topics of either personal or social concern.

Columns devoted to sports, the music scene, and fashion trends highlight each issue. Depth is gained by the addition of student photography and art work.

Each year several staff members, accompanied by Mrs. Gwyn, attend the Columbia Scholastic Press Association's and Pennsylvania Scholastic Press Association's conferences. This past year's Echo was awarded a second place rating at Columbia.

Booster's Club Supports Student Government

The Student Council is an organization which strives to develop a working relationship between students, faculty and administration. By giving students the responsibilities of self-government, Student Council seeks to help them mature.

Members of the Council were joined by other interested students in forming two Principal's Advisory Boards which met regularly with Mr. Dundore to acquaint the administration with the current student thoughts.

Arrangements made by the Council and the Mt. Penn Rotary Club brought Maricar Loyola from the Phillippines to share her experience and introduce a different culture.

The Booster's Club, an off-shoot of the Council, is in its second year of attending games, decking the halls with signs, and urging other students to support their representatives.

A clutter of books and papers and an assortment of moods characterize a typical period at a Key Club gathering.

The Key Club is a male organization dedicating its services to the school and the community. Guided by Mr. Shank, their advisor, the Key Clubbers unlock the door to community service by tutoring underprivileged children at the Fellowship House and Furnace Hill. In school the boys maintain the bulletin board, operate the school store, arrange the trophy cases, and keep the activity calendars up-to-date. Two of the club's fund raising projects are selling peanut brittle and sponsoring an "Apple Day". One outstanding club activity is the formation of the annual scrapbook, composed of photos and various club accomplishments. The book is entered in the district convention, which is the highlight of the year and is held in Pittsburgh.

Some senior Key Clubbers gather in Mr. Shank's room to discuss their charter, Time magazine. and the world.

Hi-Y Donates Dance Profits To Charity

The Youth and Government Day representatives, G. Kulp, J. Hoch, J. Pizzuto, and A. Bishop, discuss plans for the Harrisburg trip.

Advisor Wayne Murray and President Joseph Puzzuto.

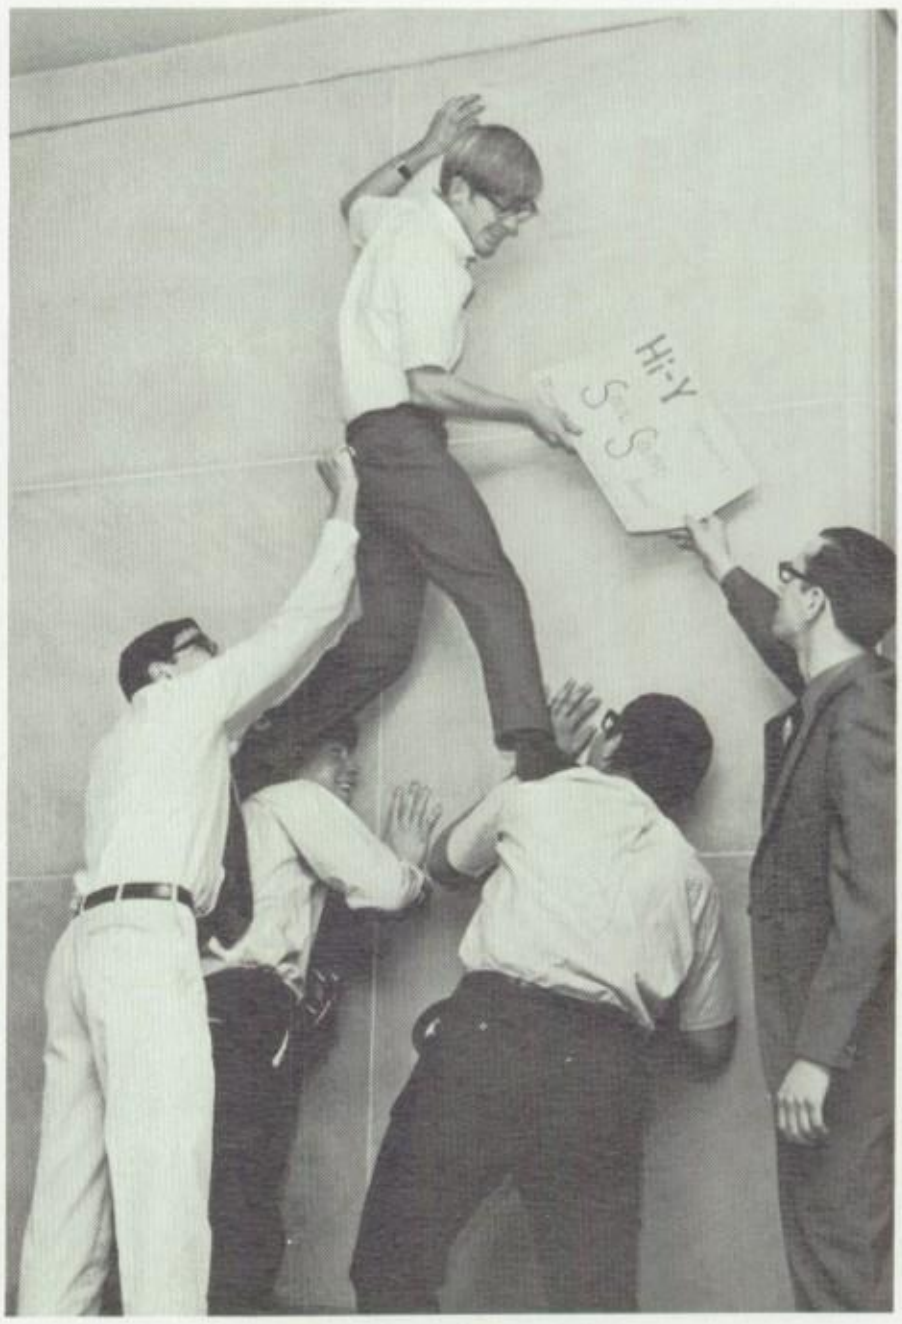
Hi-Y is an all male service organization sponsored by the YMCA, and dedicated to school and community service. Behind the direction of Mr. Murray, the advisor, this year's club has become more efficient.

In school service Hi-Y provided Exeter with three successful dances, helped send the varsity cheerleaders to camp, ushered at social events, held a "Brownie Day", maintained a Photographic Development Center and sponsored two May Day stands.

Community services ranged from collecting donations for the March of Dimes, Cystic Fibrosis, and Cerebal Palsy, to donating funds to Care and Medico, the World Service, and the Heart Fund.

The boys also participated in a Hi-Y basketball league and the 14th Annual Youth and Government Program.

Hi-Yer's gleefully assault rival Key Club president, Joe Ocasio.



Little Dieter Czerny needs the help of his sturdy fellow members to post the sign for one of Hi-Y's many dances.

Y- TEEN

The Y-Teens, a girls' organization closely affiliated with the international YWCA, functioned actively under the guidance of faculty advisor, Miss Gail Batastini. Initiation for new members in the fall, consisted of selling toilet tissue on Penn Street, a project which yielded a large profit. In addition, other fund-raising endeavors were carried out, such as selling paper flowers at football games, sponsoring the annual Morp and initiating a spring Fashion Show. The proceeds from these functions were utilized in many areas. An American Indian girl, Jolene, was sent a monthly allowance, while underprivileged children from the Reading area were entertained at Halloween, Christmas, and Easter parties. The club also volunteered its services in the collection of funds for the Multiple Sclorosis Society.

Y-Teens Sponsor Various Service Projects

Kathy Thren, Bernice Dolinski, Karen Ritter, and Janet Kleinsmith modeled for the first Y-Teens fashion show.

Preparing for the Easter egg hunt for the Fellowship House are Patty Woynarowski, Cheryl Walenta, and Kay Ginader.

Club procedures and plans are carried out under the supervision of President Rochelle Rhine, and advisor, Miss Weirman.

In an effort to raise needed funds, a candle salesman advised the club on such an undertaking.

The National Honor Society members were seniors who were inducted in an all-school assembly in their junior year. Their honor roll status and teachers' recommendations made each one eligible for the organization.

Under the committee system the students attempted quite a few projects. Some of the members spoke to junior high classes to offer assistance in schoolwork and explain the requirements of the Honor Society to inspire the students to study. In addition to cookie days, the club sold Christmas candles to raise money for the induction tea and the senior parent appreciation dinner at the Holiday Inn at which Professor Edward R. Gilbert was the guest speaker.

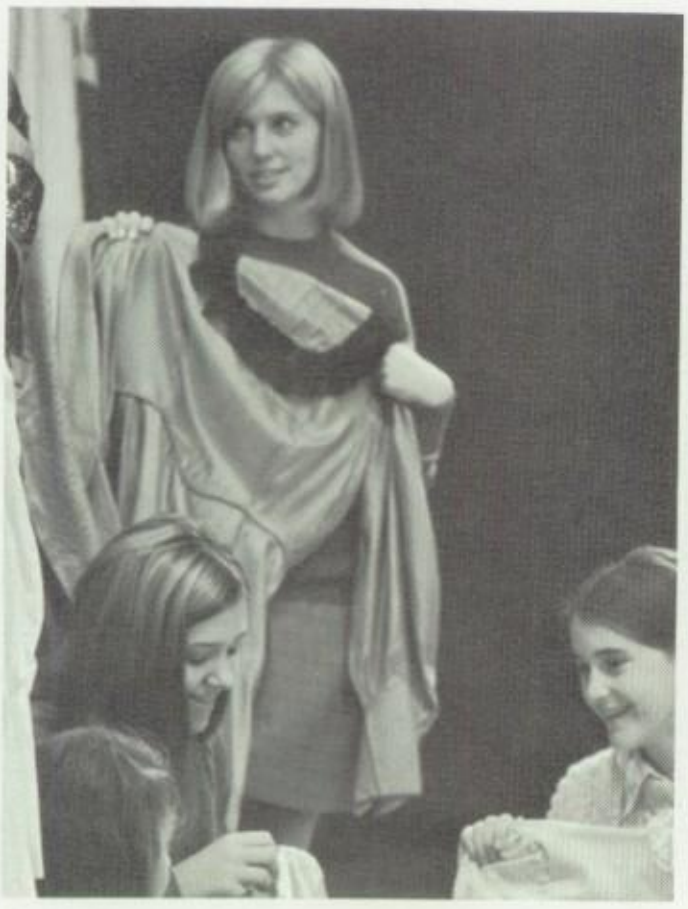
Dramatists Initiate First Thespian Troupe

Troupe 1533 of the International Thespian Society, a dramatic organization newly formed at Exeter this year, began with a charter membership of fourteen people. Requirements for the selective club include 100 hours of theater work either on stage or behind the scenes. Vital funds for the year were obtained through various projects which included blackboard washing, bulletin board, making and the selling of soft pretzels at football games. Since its formation, the thespians have been actively participating in all phases of dramatic life, ranging from class plays, Christmas assemblies and all school musicals, to yearly presentation at the local grade schools.

Becky Harper examines one of the numerous costumes backstage.



Formation of Exeter's first thespian troupe was made possible through the efforts of Miss Steinberg.

Future Teachers Of America Observe Elementary Classes

The Future Teachers of America Club offers its members many opportunities to learn more about the teaching profession. As in previous years the club observed elementary school classes to gain more knowledge about classroom procedures from the teachers point of view. Filmstrips were also obtained and viewed.

This year the F.T.A. also visited Millersville State College Campus and the Wyomissing Special Education Center. As money raising projects the entire group participated in an Italian Sandwich sale and two traveling cake sales. The club was advised by Mrs. Pauline Hart, and guided by its President, Barbara Arters.

Through observation of classes, visitation to college campuses, and discussions with speakers, future teachers work to gain further knowledge of teaching as a profession.

Medical Careers Club Donates Gifts To The Trainable Class

The Medical Careers Club is designed for any student interested in a medical profession. The year's club meetings were highlighted by a male nurse and a lab technician. One of the service projects performed by the club was the donation of money, earned from cookie days, to the Reading Hospital scholarship fund for nurses. In behalf of the Blind Association, the club collected discarded glasses and frames. At Christmas the members purchased and delivered gifts to the special education classes at the elementary schools of the township. The club traveled to Vo-Tech East to view the dental assistant classes and also journeyed to the Hershey Medical Center for a tour and lecture. At the end of the year, a collapsible wheelchair was donated to the school.

Brotherhood Club Promotes Understanding

Visiting churches of all denominations is an important part of the Brotherhood Club's year. Under the guidance of Miss Parker, the students attend services of all faiths.

During December the members also collected toys to be distributed through the Marine Corps sponsored Toys for Tots campaign.

The Brotherhood Club sponsors at least one assembly a year and has frequent guest speakers for the bi-monthly meetings.

The four students who comprised this year's library staff aided Mrs. Schmehl in the operation of the library. In addition to keeping the card catalogue up to date, this staff assisted in covering new books and preparing magazines for the reading shelves.

These assistants also typed new book cards, made fresh bulletin board displays, and checked their fellow students in and out of the library.

Library Work — Binding, Shelving, Filing

Stage Work — Lights, Sets, Sound

Again this year the stage crew was responsible for the settings for the junior and senior class plays. The boys also helped to set the stage for most of the assemblies and stage activities.

The all-school musical was the responsibility of the crew in all areas. They worked on construction, sound, lights, and set moving.

This backstage work is a prime factor in the success of the school's productions.

Cheerleaders Cheer, Dance And Chant With Spirit

After a touchdown, elated cheerleaders and band front members join in a kick line.

This was a year of many firsts for the cheerleaders. The varsity squad modeled new uniforms and received new pompons and megaphones. The junior varsity cheerleaders changed their style of cheering to straight-arm, and cheered for a few J.V. football games and wrestling matches. Both squads sold eagle pins at school and refreshments at Black Knight games to raise money for cheerleading camp in the summer of 1970.

The traditional activities such as dancing to the band's spontaneous music, making signs, cheering at all football and basketball games, and planning pep rallies, including the annual bonfire, were part of the year's accomplishments.

The 1969 football season provided many exciting moments. With only four returning starters, the Eagles struggled to a 14-6 squeaker over Pine Grove in the opener and then dropped a 28-6 game to Holy Name.

The outlook for the remainder of the season was black, but the squad began to rise to the occasion. Hard work and team spirit began to pay off when last quarter victories were recorded over Lansdale Catholic, Perkiomen Valley and Conrad Weiser.

The Perkiomen Valley game proved the squad's determination as they drove 94 yards in two minutes to eke out a 14 to 8 win with 20 seconds remaining.

The next two weekends brought the team its fourth and fifth consecutive wins with offensive shows against Wyomissing and Schuylkill Valley.

On November 1 the Eagles bowed to arch rival Daniel Boone 14 to 12 as costly mistakes enabled an outplayed Blazer team to squeeze out a win.

Eaglettes Drive Toward

The 1969 girls hockey team bullied, dribbled and drove their way to an eventful season. Shaped up by laborious laps around the field and a multitude of sundry skills, the girls practiced diligently for each game. Cries of "The game is hockey, not hackey" and "Is this lap skipping or backwards?" will long be remembered by the six seniors.

Three Exeter Harriers strive to surpass a Governor Mifflin team member.

Jim Ludwig confers with Coach Sutton and manager Tom Henderson before a meet.

Sutton's striders never stop running! During the summer Coach Jim Sutton was always prepared to advise his trackmen, but they were essentially on their own. Each harrier ran as much distance as he thought would bring him to his individual goal. Several of the boys began doing double workouts during the summer.

Even after school began the boys were assigned workouts, and they ran them on their own, but Coach Sutton could often be seen running beside his harriers.

The high point of this cross-country year was the first place rating captured at the Steel City Invitational Meet, a feat never accomplished by a Berks County cross-country team before. The team's captain Jim Ludwig placed first in every meet throughout the season, including the Class B State Championship. He also beat the Class A State Champion at Steel City where he placed first, an accomplishment never achieved by a Berks County individual previously.

Kevin Black smoothly rounds the corner at Governor Mifflin Park.

This year for the first time in the league history, a split season was initiated. This addition to basketball regulations enabled teams to play poorly in the first half yet still contend for the championship by winning the second half. By this means, more competition was added to the sport.

Although the Eagles finished with only a mediocre record, the team provided fans with many close games. The team was lead by two sophomores and two juniors, youth which now provide a promise of hope for future winning seasons.

The Eagles had three teammates ranked among the top fifteen point scorers in the league this season. This was the most held by any one team. Two of them were sophomores, Peter Yousaitis and Jeffrey Woodward, while senior Keith Moatz was the remaining one.

D. Lubas tries for tap against Governor Mifflin.

Ann Chiarelli concentrates on her foul shot

The Eaglettes, who flew into a season of new rules and regulations, ended the year with a 4-4 league score. The new rules, which made the girls' basketball game very similar to the boys' game, permitted only five players on the court. Another new aspect is that all five travel the full length of the court and all shoot; previously only four of the six players could be at one end of the court at a time, allowing only four shooting players.

Routines of layups, foul shots, and offense against defense drills filled the daily practice sessions. New defensive zones and offensive plays were experimented with and executed on court. Led by coaches Miss Frey and Miss Rankin and captains Diane Lubas and Lana Rau the team worked continuously for a better game. After home games the opposing team was invited for Cokes to stimulate sportsmanship.

Despite the new rules the Eaglettes were able to defeat their traditional rivals, Mt. Penn, twice in very close involved games.

The Exeter varsity team composed of twelve matmen initiated their third season with a match against Conrad Weiser. Led by co-captains Brian Valleau and Jack Yorgey, the team experienced overwhelming victories despite their handicaps. Their record was marred by frequent injuries to key wrestlers. These injuries included the two-month incapacitation of the coach, Don Evans. With aid, however, of five senior members assistant coach Edward Gaul supervised the team.

More than ever before student support can be credited for producing the successful season. Not only were spectators plentiful, but faculty and students alike patronized the matmen in their efforts to purchase new wrestling jackets.

Senior teammate Brian Valleau witnessed many personal successes as he qualified for the sectional tournament, but lost in the finals.

Despite the lengthy season, the bowling team, under the leadership of coach Wayne Murray, posted a respectable 26-22 record. Playing their home matches at Bowl-a-Rama, the team finished fourth in their league and fifth in the county.

Excellence in individual performances marked the season. Senior Louis Ellis finished the year with a commendable 193 average and compiled a 658 game total. Junior James Stewart was the individual winner in the county tournament, gaining 1206 pins in six games for a 201 average.

County Tournament: Doubles Champions

The 1970 golf team finished the season with the best record in the entire history of the sport at Exeter. Five men entered the Berks County Tournament and won the team trophy, with Wedge Lutz taking first and Chip Lutz third. Wedge, Chip, Mike Codi and Joe Codi entered the District III Tournament at Hershey. Joe Codi, who placed fifth and Wedge Lutz, who placed seventh, qualified to play in the State Tournament at State College.

The team ended the season with a victory to win the Berks County Championship.

The tennis team enjoyed another successful season finishing with a 9-3 record. Under the leadership of new coach, James Fegley, the squad put together strings of five and three wins. Fleetwood proved to be their toughest opponent, defeating them in both encounters.

James Barrer and Bart Ullrich represented the school and won the county doubles championship while five team members participated in the District III match.

With a predominately sophomore squad, the promise for next year's success is great.

The girls' softball team finished their season in second place with a 6-4 overall record. A highlight of the season was the upset victory over Boyertown which ended that school's 63 game winning streak. In addition, the last game of the season, played against Governor Mifflin, decided the league championship.

Game strategy drills led by Coach Rankin and captains Candy Welch and Chris Luczewski helped prepare the team for actual game situations.

Girl's Track Team Ties For Berks County Title

Thirty nine fleet-footed lassies composed this year's girls' track team coached by Mrs. Paula Desjardin. For the first year the team amazingly beat Schukyll Valley in a very competitive meet. The height of the season was the victory at Penn Relays in Philadelphia. The 440 relay team placed first in this national competition after a second and third in previous years.

The County meet proved to be an exciting success. Exeter won the majority of running events and Twin Valley won the field. In the pouring rain the last event decided the meet. Exeter tied Twin Valley for first place. This was the first year that Schukyll Valley had not captured the honors. Because only two seniors are on the team, the prospects for 1971 are extremely good.

Eagles Lie With Boone For Div. II Laurels

The track team had one of its finest years, producing outstanding performances in both track and field events. These performances gave the boys three championships in the Berks County Meet, and first and second places in the District and State Meets.

On the local level, individual winners were Bruce Hess, Robert Lorenz, Andrew Bishop, and Richard Wegman. At the Berks County Championship Meet, quarter-miler Kevin Black won his event. Other individual winners included John Sofranko and James Ludwig. The mile relay team composed of Sofranko, Kevin Black, Tim Kearney, and John D'Augustine finished second.

In the district meet, Ludwig won the two mile, covering the distance in 9:35.5 to set a new district record. The two mile relay team composed of Jeff Yost, Sofranko, Black, and Kearney captured second place and set a new county record.

At the state meet, the two mile relay team defeated the team which had beaten them in districts to take second place. Ludwig waltzed to first place in the two mile run with a time of 9:42.3.

Scoot Toole hands baton to anchor man Kevin Black in Sprint Relay at Albright.

Senior Rod Hartman clears the final hurdle in the county meet.

Dieter Czerny warms up before the 2-mile run.

Sprinters Richard Wegman and John D'Augustine complete the handoff in a mile relay.

Baseball Team Struggles Through Trying Season

Fluctuating between victory and defeat, the varsity baseball team ended with a record of 3-7 for the season. Off to an auspicious start, senior Frank Resh pitched a no-hitter in the first game with Perkiomen Valley. A good number of the outs were strikeouts. Unfortunately, the first game was no indication of the competition which followed in the league.

One overtime game with Oley seemed to represent the whole season. The team battled through 14 innings until the game was called because of darkness. Since the see-saw game ended in a 7-7 tie, it had to be replayed the next day. Two other overtime games added to the tension of the season.

The team improved and played its best ball at the end of the season.

Graduation

Seniors prepare to march in to the Schwarzwald U.C.C. for Bacculaureate services on Sunday, May 31, 1970.

Seniors listen intently to Reverend Huber during the 3accalaureate service.

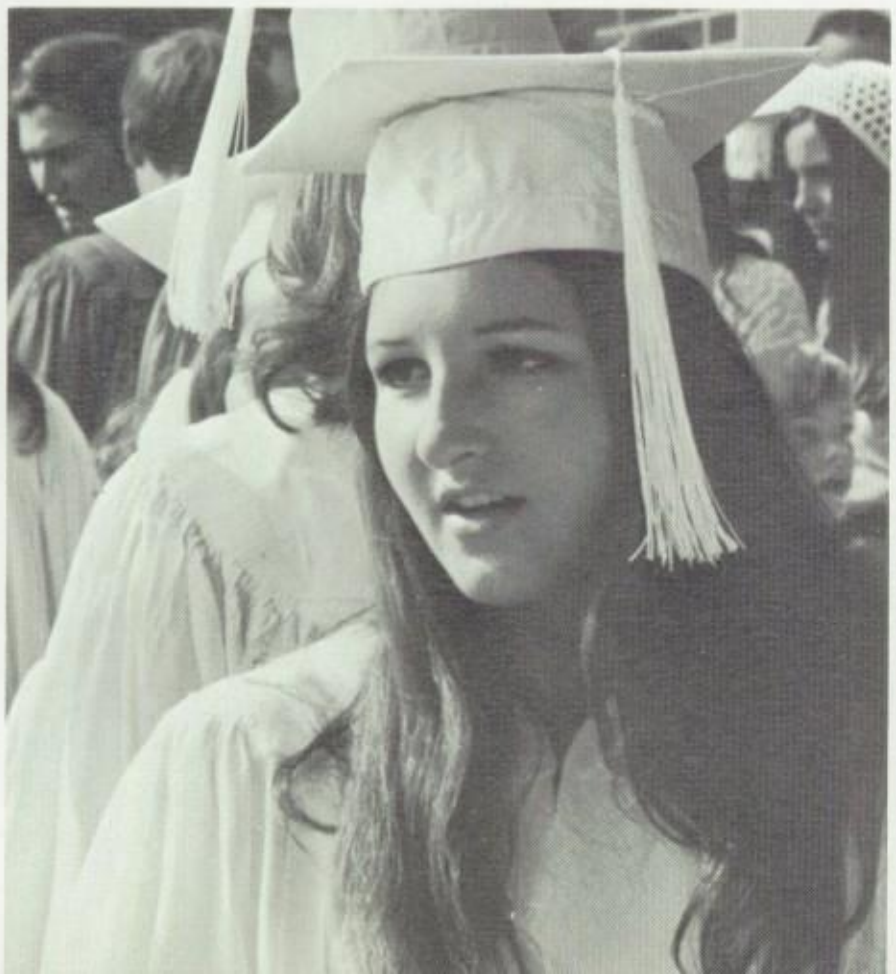
Baccalaureate 1970

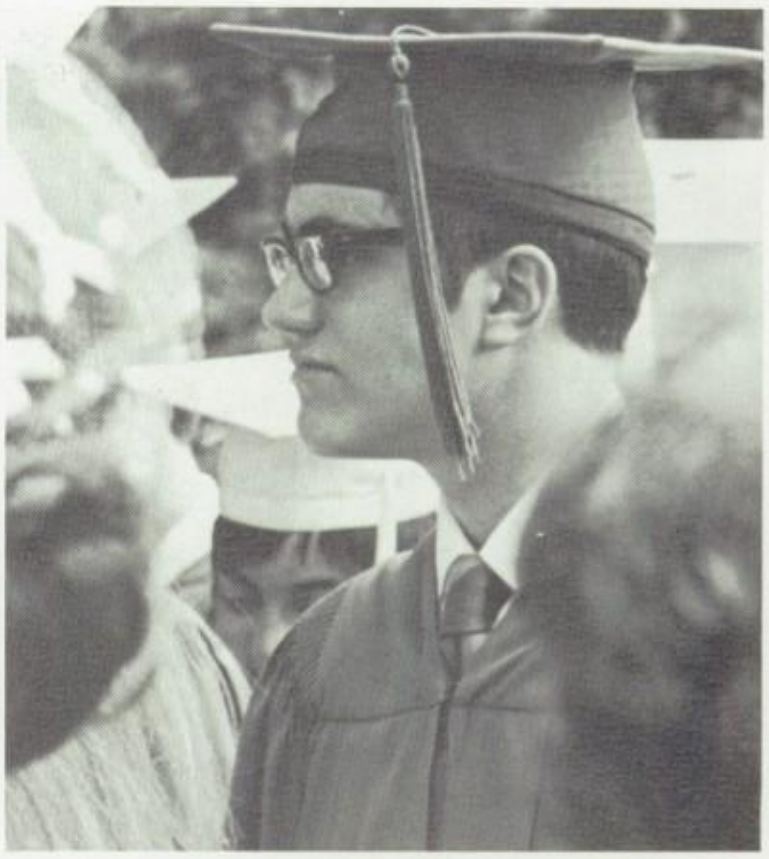
Mixed emotions possess the seniors as they file from the church.

Schwarzwald U.C.C.'s Reverend Huber delivers the sermon, "New Breed of Catfish."

John Fidler adjusts Kay Ginader's mortarboard before proceeding in to the church.

After the service, Melissa Maholick discusses graduation plans with her friends.

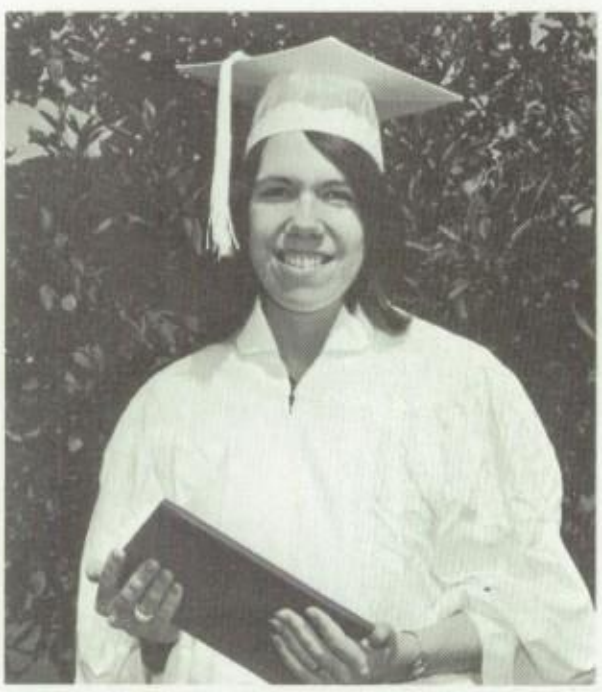




David Ernst, honor graduate, considers the Baccalaureate message.

Pam Hertz contemplates her future plans.

Commencement: "The Magic Of The Moment"

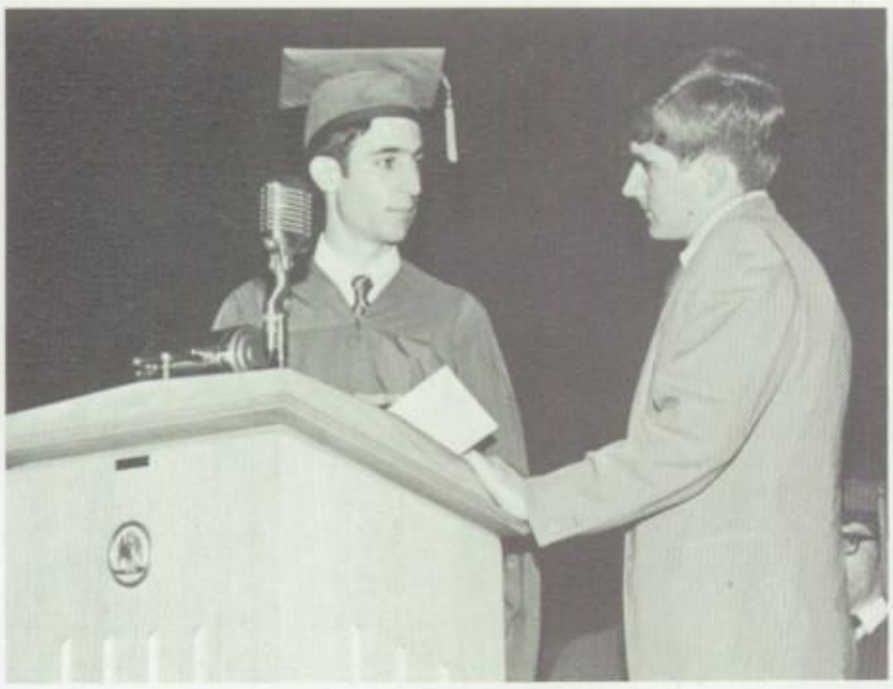


Valedictorian Kay Ginader addressed the graduation audience on the topic "Artistically Speaking".

Salutatorian Janet Goldstan, in her speech, "Speaking," brought to a conclusion the four addresses on communication.

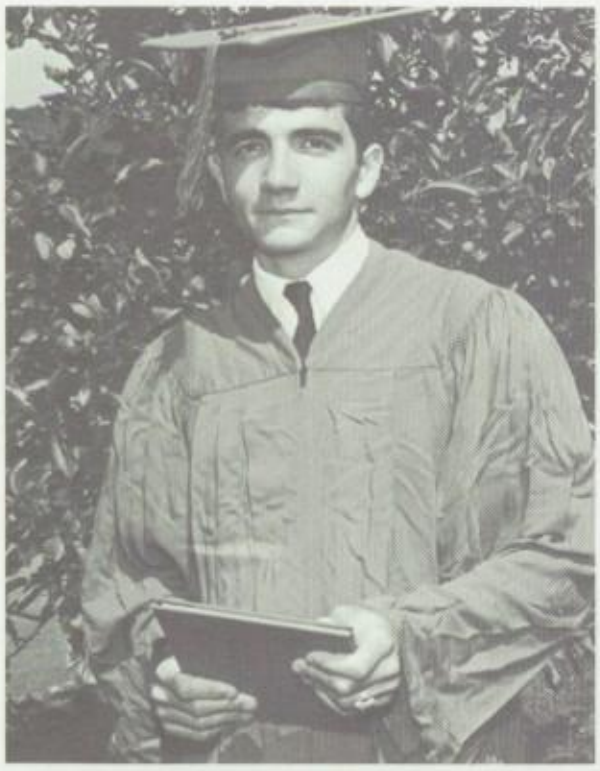
Seniors remove their caps and gowns upon the completion of the graduation ceremonies.

Guy Kuhns is surrounded by well-wishers outside the junior high auditorium.

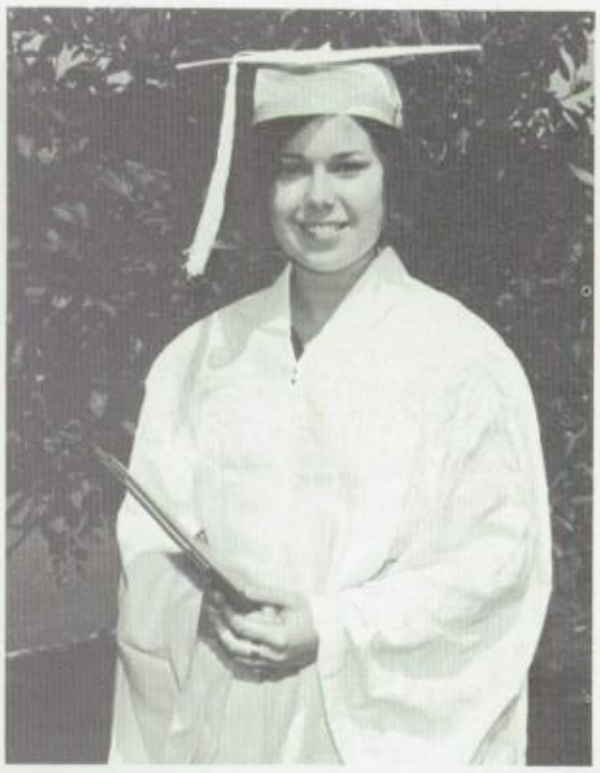


Student Council President-Elect Michael Codi accepts the senior gifts from Senior Vice President Michael Russo.

LaForest C. Smith addresses the graduating class on "The Magic of the Moment".



"Emotionally Speaking" was the topic of honor graduate Joseph Codi's speech.



Honor graduate Jeri Sagemuehl introduced the four seniors' topics and spoke on "Technologically Speaking".

A senior quartet composed of David Brode, Cynthia Lee, James Hornberger, and Davis Knauer was one of several musical interludes.

Epilogue

The tall oak tree

In all its brilliance

Stands beside the empty school.

Even from my distance

In summer sun of leisure days

I view the foliage –

Joined only by the thin connecting limbs.

Glancing over my shoulder

I see the leaf

Of each event.

To strangers

Each five-point blends together.

But in memory

Each lingers as unique.

Even now

I realize autumn hides

Behind the facade

Of eternal golden days;

Leaves must die, and be forgotten,

Fall, and become brown and crushed.

As years pass

And new leaves sprout,

I know I'll not forget

The image of that tree.

Janet S. Goldstan

uday,
Best of luck in the
uture to a really sweet
